Harbour House teenagers will move to Waveland

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
 Six homeless teenage girls lodged at the State Department of Public Welfare's Harbour House in Bay St. Louis will relocate to a Waveland residence.

The move has been the subject of controversy for the last two weeks. Wallace Bradley, Hancock County Welfare Department director, Thursday morning said based on discussion at a Wednesday night meeting with the Waveland Board of Aldermen that the group foster home will relocate by June 1 to a two-story Sidney Street residence owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Woods of that city.

"We understand if the owners renovate the building to meet all local and state codes that we will be able to move in by the end of this month," Bradley stated.

Harbour House is the only state-operated facility which provides a group foster home for teenage girls who have been neglected, abused or abandoned by their families.

The girls are now housed at the old Gex home at the corner of Gex and Court Streets in Bay St. Louis across the street from the County Jail, but the state's lease on that building with McDonald Realty expires at the end of this month when the firm plans to begin renovating the house for rental office space.

Bradley said the girls should be moved away from the jail for their own protection in view of a recent rash of prisoner escapes.

The controversy began at a May 4 board meeting where several residents presented a petition containing 91 names of persons objecting to a 'wayward girls' facility locating in the house.

Based on the residents complaints, the board accepted the petition and voted to oppose the facility locating on Sidney Street.

In response, Jennie Mitchell who lives across the street from the proposed foster home site circulated a counter-petition endorsing the Waveland move.

That petition containing almost 300 names of residents and property owners was accepted by the board Wednesday night.

However, Mayor John Longo and Alderman Louis Smolensky at the meeting denied news reports that the board would have voted to oppose the Harbour House relocation.

Smolensky stated, "I don't think at any time any board members were against having the girls in town." "The motion (accepting the petition) was proposed by me and as far as to say I don't want the girls in this town is a

Council debates rebidding Small Cities gas project

By BRENT MACEY

Public opinion appeared to play a mayor in determining action taken by the Bay St. Louis City Council at a meeting Tuesday.

The possibility of arousing public criticism caused the council to debate whether or not to rebid a gas line renovation project inside the 1981 Small Cities Project portion of the city.

And thoughts that the public might think the council is nit picking was partly the reason why council members failed to adopt an ordinance which would have required everyone in the city to number their homes with digits at least two-and-one-half inches tall.

Offenders would have been fined a dollar a day.

In reference to the Small Cities Project, council members noted a bid of $198,877 by Southland Enterprises of Gulfport was $70,000 lower than the next highest bid.

The bids were opened several months ago and the company is currently in the process of laying five miles of gas line in the project area.

HONORED ON RETIREMENT—Perry Gibson, left, receives a lifetime membership to the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and Kodak D-190 Camera from J. J. Broome, president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce during a retirement party given by Mississippi Power Company in Gulfport for his 42 years of service. Gibson, twice president of the Hancock Chamber has been active in civic and community affairs in Hancock since taking over Mississippi Power Company's local office as manager in 1940. Cunningham McCall, General Manager of the Gulfport Division of Mississippi Power said Gibson was a "most dedicated employee" as he presented him with gifts from the utility company. Gibson's wife, Beulah, his daughter, Lisa and her husband, Paul, and his grandchildren, Eric and Billy were among those attending the celebration. The Waveland resident's last day of employment at Mississippi Power will be Friday, May 23. He now serves as a trustee at Hancock General Hospital and is a member of the board of directors of the chamber. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Groundbreaking set for $3 million Bay shopping center

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Groundbreaking for a $3 million Bay St. Louis shopping center is planned for Thursday morning.

City officials, contractors and businessmen will gather at the corner of US-90 and Duncan Avenue at 10:30 a.m. to officially begin construction of the planned shopping center named Markettown.

Gay Gilmore of Bay St. Louis and G. J. Gilmore of Ocean Springs, Ala., are Markettown. Friday said contracts have been signed with Warehouse Foods, Eckerd Drugs and Ward Hamburgers to locate in the 100,000-square-foot center.

Foundation construction is under way and a weather permitting, the center should be completed in about eight months, Gilmore speculated.

He stressed Warehouse Foods, owned by Gilmore's brother-in-law, is building a modern prototype store in Markettown covering about 31,000-square feet.

The store is the first of its type built in Mississippi, which will contain a bakery, delicatessen, and a no frills section with items available by the case, Gilmore noted.

The developer said a drug store will close its store on Second Street in Bay St. Louis and relocate to the new center.

Gilmore said he is working with Warehouse executives who plan to cleared and grubbed property area to allow parking, but Ward Hamburgers is constructing its fast-food operation at the corner.

Gilmore said Ward is a relatively new fast-food chain based in Hattiesburg which features hamburgers, hotdogs and ice cream.

Wards has nearby franchises in Picayune and Orange Grove, he noted.

"We are building a boutique operation," Gilmore said regarding several other small store spaces available at the center.

He also revealed negotiations are underway with a pizza restaurant and pizza franchise planning to locate in Markettown.

Ten seeking Beat 3 Justice Court post

By EDGAR PEREZ

Hancock County's District Three voters will select from among 10 candidates who have qualified to run for the district's vacant Justice Court judge's post.

Circuit Clerk Henry Otis, who also serves as the county's registrar of voters, said Friday eight candidates had been certified by the county's Election Commission, with two other expected to receive commission certification at a Friday night meeting.

The Justice Court vacancy occurred earlier this year when the Mississippi Supreme Court removed Judge Lloyd Anderson of Crane Creek for alleged improprieties in office.

Anderson was serving his second four-year term as the Beat Three justice.

Anderson's wife Meridith, who had served as his secretary, is among the candidates in the special election called to fill the position.

Other candidates include Hilda L. Bourg, Diamondhead community leader; W. J. Cameron of Bay St. Louis, junior high school principal; Edward T. Discicco of Rocky Hill, home building contractor; and James C. Ladner of Dedeaux, Hancock County auxiliary deputy sheriff and Port of Gulfport employee.

Also, Roger Ladner of Standard, independent trucking operator; David Michael Nicaise of Bay St. Louis, attorney; Luis O. Nicaise Jr. of Standard, shipyard worker; McCoy Peterson of Dedeaux, construction worker and farmer; and Clifton Saucier of Standard, real estate salesman and lounge operator.

RUNOFF LIKELY

Otis said in the event no candidate receives a clear majority, the top two contenders will vie in a runoff election June 15.

Other elections to be included on the June 1 ballot include Democratic and Republican Primaries for United States Senator.

Democrats seeking their party's nomination are the incumbent, Sen. John C. Stennis; Charles Pittman and Colon Johnston.

Republicans will choose between Haley Barbour and Bobby G. Richardson.

Fugitive returned from Texas

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A fugitive wanted in connection with a January armed robbery in Hancock County was returned from Texas and lodged in the Hancock County Jail Friday according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Marilyn Page, 35, Box 52, McLeod, Texas is lodged in the Hancock County jail in lieu of a $50,000 bond. She was indicted by the Hancock Grand Jury in April in connection with the armed robbery.

Peterson commented "Virginia Guilbeau, a resident of Firetower Road was returning home on Jan. 16 at about 9:30 p.m. She drove into her driveway, got out of her car and walked to the door with a 38-caliber pistol in her left hand and a door key in her other hand."

"Mrs. Guilbeau, as she tried to open her door, was struck numerous times on the back of her head apparently with a blackjack. The victim's gun fell to the ground as a result of the attack. The assailant picked up the gun, held it on Guilbeau and took all the diamond rings off her fingers, her purse with credit cards and an undetermined amount of cash and fled," the sheriff added.

"T.P. Naylor, senior investigator of the Coastal Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the State Highway Patrol and Hancock Investigator Alvin Lander have been working on the case. A plaster of paris cast taken of a shoe print in addition to a tip from a Pascagoula detective had led to indictment of Page. Her photo was also picked out by the victim in a photo line-up," Peterson said.

Page was being held by the Marion County Sheriff's Department for Pascagoula Police on charges of embezzlement.

She at first fought extradition to Hancock but later agreed to return, the sheriff noted.

"After the robbery Mrs. Guilbeau was taken to Hancock General Hospital for treatment of head lacerations and released," Peterson said.

County participating, funding questionable

Bay-Waveland animal shelter hearing set

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A public hearing regarding a proposed location for a Bay-Waveland animal shelter will be Tuesday, June 1 at 6:30 p.m. in the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

However, all local officials do not know if Hancock County will join in funding a tri-government facility.

Also unknown is the exact amount of funds set aside in a bank account for such a shelter.

Leaders of the two cities recently agreed to build their own facility after Hancock County officials were unsuccessful in securing a site for a tri-government operated shelter.

The latest proposed animal shelter location is next to the city sewage plant and Fire Station No. Two.

Waveland's Board of Aldermen Wednesday night agreed to conduct the hearing just before its regularly scheduled 7:30 p.m. meeting at City Hall.

Mayor John Longo emphasized, "We plan to construct a soundproof and sanitary animal shelter by the plant."

Barbara Rappold, city clerk and an alderman, added, "The facility will be totally enclosed. That's the point which was not told when other sites drew objections."

Longo requested a special invitation be extended to Dr. Herbert LeBourgeois, a Waveland veterinarian; the County Board of Supervisors; and the Bay St. Louis City Council.

Lucien Gex, city judge and attorney, recommended the meeting be conducted at the civic center to accommodate a large crowd and humorously stated, "People might get excited about girls (at Harbour House), but they go berserk when you start talking about dogs."

A question remains if the county will participate in the latest animal shelter site location and construction effort.

Most members of a County Animal Control Commission reportedly resigned recently, but A.A. (Dolph) Keller, board of supervisors president, Friday said county officials have never received official resignations from any commission members.

Kellar added he feels the commission still sits as originally constituted.

E. Michael Necaise, chancery clerk, Friday confirmed the commission has an established account in which $5,000 was placed by the supervisors; $2,500 by Alcan Cable Co. in Bay St. Louis; as well as several other individual donations.

But Necaise did not know how much money is in the account and referred all questions to Cel Dumestre, commission president.

Dumestre Friday said the commission has an interest bearing account, but he did not know the exact amount in the fund and would not speculate on that figure.

Kellar also said he does not know how much money is in the commission's account.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting at City Hall, the board:

—Accepted a low bid totalling $32,750 from Thweatt Construction, Inc. of Jackson for construction of water lines and well renovations for expanding the city water system along US-90;

—Accepted a low bid of $308,100 from Taylor Iron Works and Supply Co. of Macon, Ga. for erection of a water tower near US-90;

—Accepted a low bid totalling $124,950 for renovation and expansion of the City Library;

—Authorized Lewis-Eaton Partnership to execute contracts for the accepted bids and proceed with the work;

—Authorized final payments amounting to $29,160 to Southland Enterprises, Inc. of Gulfport for a US-40 sewage system expansion project;

—Authorized a final $9,122 payment to Lewis-Eaton for engineering work in the sewage system project;

—Authorized a $25 advertisement in the Miss Mississippi Contest program;

—Authorized a $25 advertisement in a Trinity Christian Academy program;

—Authorized Longo to sign a mutual aid agreement with the National Space Technology Laboratories Fire Department;

—Authorized Rappold to purchase ballot cards listing candidates on voting machines for the November city elections which will cost $182;

—Authorized advertisements seeking bids for a one-half ton pickup truck for the City Water and Gas Department;

—Authorized a $147 property tax redemption for four lots belonging to Gwen Cardell;

—Authorized tax adjustments for Kenyon Harrington, Gulf Pines, Inc. and Inez Gustafson;

—Rejected a lone $7,500 bid submitted by Truck Equipment Sales, Inc. of Theodore, Ala. which sought to sell the city a 1975 garbage truck;

—Heard a report from Perry Gibson, Hancock branch manager of Mississippi Power Co., stating that he will retire at the end of May;

—Received a letter from Horace Thompson of Nicholson Avenue commending the City Police Department for recovering items stolen from his home and apprehending the burglars within minutes.

Softball tournament set

A baseball double-header featuring a special tournament on AAA level will be held on Sunday, May 23, 1982, at 10:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. at the Waveland Civic Center. The teams will be the Waveland team and the Bay St. Louis team. The winner of the tournament will receive a trophy and a cash prize. The game is free and open to the public. ## NASA selects subcontractor

NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., has selected Hercules, Inc. and Votaw Precision Tool Inc., a joint venture, as a subcontractor to Thikol Corporation for negotiation under the Space Shuttle Solid Rocket Booster Contract for the development of a Filament Wound Case for the Solid Rocket Motor used in the Space Shuttle's Solid Rocket Boosters.

The Filament Wound Case subcontract will be a cost plus-incentive award fee type for design, development, test, and delivery of four flight cases for a proposed cost of approximately $33 million.

The filament wound case segments will replace portions of the current steel case segments for high performance launches.

Accident injuries fatal to Pass man

A Pass Christian man, injured in a traffic accident on U.S. 90 in Gulfport Saturday, May 15, died of head injuries, according to Harrison County Coroner Edgar Little Jr.

James C. Wittman Jr., 33, of 1302 E. Second St., died Tuesday night, May 18, 1982 at Gulf Coast Community Hospital as a result of massive skull trauma, Little said.

According to a Gulfport Police Department report released by Chief Larkin Smith, Wittman was traveling west on U.S. 90 about 11 p.m.

A car driven by Ernestine Christy, traveling at a high rate of speed in the eastbound lane, crossed the median and struck Wittman's vehicle, causing it to overturn, according to witnesses, the police report said.

Ms. Christy, 26, of Route 3, Pass Christian, was taken to Keeler Medical Center for treatment, according to the report.

Susan Wittman, 28, of 243 Reed Ave., Long Beach, and Cathy Southerlin, 26, of 616 Joseph Ave., Gulfport, passengers in the Wittman car, were treated and released from Gulf Coast Community Hospital, the report said.

Patrolman Steve Sote, who investigated, charged Ms. Christy with improper lane usage after the accident, the report said.

PRC fees increased

Students attending Pearl River College this fall will have to pay $15 more per semester.

The PRC Board of Trustees approved raising tuition from $175 per semester to $190 or about seven percent. Students living on campus will also pay more as room and board fees for five day students were increased from $467 to an even $500 per semester.

"It is strictly a sound financial move," said Ron Holmes, PRC's business manager. "We are in good financial shape at this time and this minimum increase will help us stay that way."

Compared to other Mississippi Junior Colleges, Pearl River's fees are in line. Northwest students will pay $260 next fall, Gulf Coast $205, Jones $200, Itawamba $210, Southwest $175.

Other PRC fees increasing were tuition for out-of-state, out-of-district and foreign students. Vocational-technical shop fees were increased along with noon meal tickets and bus transportation.

"Our increases are minimal," Holmes said. "They are a must for us just to meet our increasing fixed costs."

Pearl River College officials were told recently that they would receive about the same as last year in state appropriations. PRC's faculty and staff members were then told that their salaries were frozen for the coming year.

With the new increases PRC students will pay $220 per semester and that will include tuition and books. Students living on campus will pay $720 per semester and this figure includes books, tuition and room and board for five days each week. Bus transportation Monday through Friday during the semester is $100.

Hancock health building slated for expansion

By BRENT MACEY

An addition to the existing Hancock County Health Department building on Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis is expected to alleviate overcrowded conditions and solve the problems outlined in Hancock Grand Jury reports for the past two years.

At a recent meeting, the Hancock Board of Supervisors approved advertising for bids to enlarge the building.

The plans, drawn up by Bay St. Louis architect Fred Wagner, call for the addition of a 220 square foot section to the front of the building.

According to Leo Lackie, district administrator for the State Board of Health, the Grand Jury reports were taken into consideration when the plans were developed.

The July 1981 Grand Jury report notes there are no rest rooms or water coolers available in the waiting room.

"The offices and halls are overcrowded with files and boxes" and there is "inadequate space for interviewing and treating patients," the report states.

Lackie and Wagner stated the addition will house two private interviewing rooms and two restrooms. Two other private interviewing rooms will be constructed inside the existing building to bring a total to four additional interviewing rooms.

Remodeling inside the existing building will also add two new examining rooms.

A water fountain will also be installed in the existing waiting room.

"It should solve most of the problems we've had with overcrowding," Lackie said.

He noted that some files will continue to be stored in a hall way of the building.

However, "They won't be in a patient flow area," Lackie said.

Bids on the construction project are set to opened June 14.

Lackie would not reveal amount of money budgeted for the project until bids have been received.

He said the department has been saving money for the past several years to build the new addition.

Funds have been placed in a special account for the project.

"It is county money," Lackie noted.

will face each other in a Nov. 2 General Election in addition to any independent candidates who qualify before Sept. 5 for the U.S. Senate seat.

Seeking the Democratic nomination for a Second District, Place One State Circuit Court judgeship are Clyde Hurlbert and James Thomas.

Republicans seeking nomination June 1 for the slot in the judicial district which includes Hancock and Harrison Counties are Crockett Lindsey and William Wessler.

The contested judgeship becomes vacant upon the forthcoming retirement of Senior Circuit Judge Leslie Grant.

The winners in those two primary elections also will meet in the Nov. 2 General Election.

Incumbent Circuit Court judges in the Second Judicial District who will appear on the June 1 ballot but who face opposition from neither Democrats nor Republicans include J. Ruble Griffin, Place Two; and Kosta N. Vlahos, Place Three.

Eighth District Chancery Court incumbent judges, whose jurisdictions also include Hancock and Harrison Counties and who also are unopposed by either Democratic or Republican candidates are William L. Stewart, Place One; Jason H. Floyd Jr., Place Two; and J.S. (Johnny) Morris, Place Three.

The names of those unopposed incumbents will also appear on the June 1 ballot, Otis explained.

ELECTION DELAY

The Hancock voting official also noted five U.S. House of Representative nominations in Mississippi slated to be contested in the June 1 primaries have been delayed by mandate from the U.S. Attorney General's Office.

The delay is the result of the federal officials' refusal to approve congressional district revisions recently drawn by the Mississippi Legislature.

"We are the only state in the nation which cannot make any election changes without approval from the U.S. Attorney General," Otis lamented.

Implementation of a recently enacted open primary system by the Legislature is also being delayed by the U.S. Attorney General's Office.

"The open primary laws passed by the Mississippi Legislature are identical to those in Louisiana which have drawn no objections from anyone," he continued.

ABSENTEE BALLOTING

Otis said his office began accepting absentee ballots for the June 1 election Saturday and will continue during office hours Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m.

The clerk's office will also be open from 8 a.m. until noon Saturday, May 20, the absentee balloting deadline.

Persons planning to be away from their regular voting place June 1, except those on vacation, should vote absentee, Otis emphasized.

"Absentee ballots will be accepted from persons in military service and their spouses who are also away from home; persons working more than 50 miles away from home; college students; persons sick at home or in hospitals; nursing home patients; persons physically disabled and unable to go to polls election day; and others who qualify under the law."

He noted absentee ballots for the District Three Justice Court judgeship race cannot be ready until Tuesday.

since qualifying for the election did not close until Saturday.

Polls will be open at the Hancock County precincts from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on June 1.

PRECINCT MANAGERS

Also Friday, Otis reported the following voters will serve as precinct managers and balliffs at the Hancock County polls June 1.

The letter (B) behind a name indicates that person will serve as balliff at the designated precinct.

ETV Brief

WEEK OF PETS

During the week of May 31 on "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," Fred Rogers talks about pets. The new programs can be seen at 4 p.m., Monday-Friday, May 31-June 4, on the Mississippi ETV Network. "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" is rebroadcast at 8 the next morning.

All week, Mister Rogers focuses on animals and the importance of kindness and responsibility in caring for them. He emphasizes that pets are not toys and do not always want to play or be held all the time. He also stresses that proper veterinary care is essential in owning and enjoying a pet.

On Friday, Mister Rogers visits the National Zoological Park in Washington, D.C., where he helps prepare food for the giant pandas.

Bits 'n pieces

School is now out for most students and parents probably are glad the routine of getting them ready each day is ended for awhile.

Efforts are underway for the establishment of a booster club for all sporting activities at Hancock North Central.

The time is now to get such an organization underway and we urge all concerned parents and friends of Hancock North Central to attend an organizational meeting planned Monday night.

All of the coaches as well as many of the teachers at HNC support the formation of this club at HNC, so we hope parents will be at the cafeteria Monday night at 7:30 p.m.

We have seen the value of the Bay High Booster Club as well as the St. Stanislaus Sideline Club.

The students are the ones who really benefit.

There seems to be a lot of activity around this season of the year including things which are not so pleasant.

We are referring to the two dog bite victims last weekend, so the possibility of being bitten by dogs this time of the year seems to be great.

Residents are urged to move with caution around dogs, and owners should restrain animals who may have a tendency to bite someone.

County residents should offer a special thank you to the Bay St. Louis warden, who has been helping the sheriff's office with problems animals.

We do hope the Hancock County Board of Supervisors 'looks into the matter,' in reference to having some type of animal control in the county.

Harrison County seems to have a dog warden or some type of officer, so possibly Hancock may be able to do the same.

While on the subject of animals, we are happy to see the City of Waveland schedule a public hearing on June 1 in reference to the possibility of constructing an animal shelter near the Water Treatment Facility.

We understand this is going to be an effort involving both Cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

No one needs to express the need for a good animal shelter, and since the one formerly used by both Bay St. Louis and Waveland had to be abandoned because of need by the property owners, we hope the one now proposed will become a reality.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

Budget Controversy

One of the most difficult to resolve controversies facing Congress is the budget resolution which establishes spending and revenue targets for the 1983 fiscal year.

There are considerable differences of opinion in both the Senate and House of Representatives, and at the White House, on how to structure the budget for next year.

The Senate Budget Committee has reported a budget resolution which the President says is acceptable, but the House Budget Committee, under the Democratic leadership in that body, has produced another version, which the White House opposes.

Under the budget process, the resolution and legislation appropriating funds and raising revenue under these guidelines must be signed by the President to be effective.

Clearly, if the impasse continues the economic recovery program will suffer. Specifically, the financial markets and the Federal Reserve Board must be convinced, as soon as possible, that Congress will take action to reduce the projected deficit in the 1983 budget so interest rates will come down.

Unless changes are made by Congress to restrain spending and raise additional revenue, the deficit next year will be $182 billion. In 1984 and 1985 deficits exceeding $200 billion will be incurred each year unless such changes are made. The Senate resolution will reduce substantially these expected shortfalls, signalling a commitment finally to getting government spending under control.

I have been concerned with the partisan influences on both sides of this budget debate. Much exaggeration has taken place. Accusations are heard that there is too little for the poor, or too much for some who are receiving government assistance. Some want more for defense. Others want less. An appeal is heard to repeal the tax cuts, while there are compelling arguments on the other side.

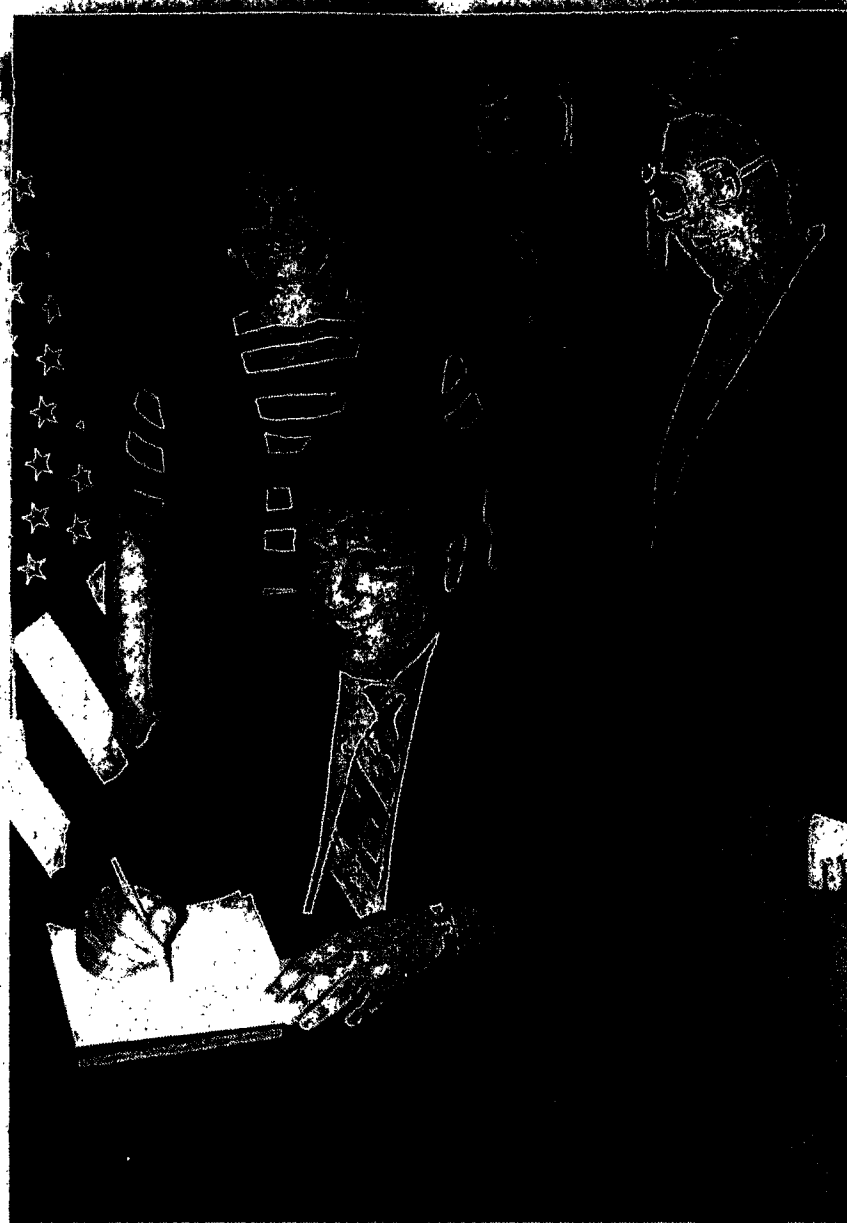

There is nothing wrong with a healthy debate, but the time for this debate is running out rapidly. A lot of people are out of work. Interest rates are still too high, and the deficits are too big to tolerate any longer.

This is not a Republican problem. It is not a Democrat problem. What we need now is less political posturing and more statesmanship. Rather than more of the debate that has raged for months, we need a solution to the problem.

I am convinced the issues can be resolved and that reason will prevail. We must reduce the growth of spending, but we can still have programs that help meet the needs of those who really do need help. We must strengthen the military, but we don't have to give the Pentagon a blank check.

While we do need more revenue to reduce the projected deficit, there are plenty of loopholes that can be closed in the tax code without destroying the incentives that have been put in place to stimulate savings and investment that expand our industrial base and create more and better jobs.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

We have promoted our florist business to the extent that special occasions are us to death. What should we do, let us on the ads? We're tired.

Tear, W.T.: Most businesses in your line just try to gear up for the busy times and tough it out. But a change in ad strategy could give you some relief.

Slowing up on the ads would cut down on your seasonal demand, but the long term effect would be to allow your business to decline and someone else's business to grow at your expense. So, this wouldn't seem to be a very wise move.

I would recommend changing the thrust of your ads to promote sales on other than the traditional occasions.

For instance, your theme for ads might be: "Any occasion is special with flowers (or a flower arrangement) from..."

This approach would hopefully build a more consistent demand between the special occasion peaks. By promoting your services for birthdays, anniversaries, thank-yous, etc., you will emphasize the traditional flower occasions, while continuing to promote your business.

It will take some time, and the results will not be as dramatic. For, as you well know, the best results, in terms of sales, come from ads placed prior to peak demand.

You, in effect, would be going against the tide of demand, and the results will reflect this.

However, in your case I feel you can do so and get some results without doing harm to your traditional business.

Some businesses are afraid to change ad strategy, but I feel you would be wise to do so in this case. After all, if you have a special need or problem, why shouldn't a special approach to solving it be in order?

Blindness group tells eye protection tips

As people turn to house and yard work with the advent of warmer weather, the National Society to Prevent Blindness, Mississippi Affiliate warns that most eye injuries happen around the home.

"An estimated 45 percent of all vision impairments due to injury are from home accidents. Yet, nine out of ten of those injuries can be prevented," says Art Nabers, Safety Director of the Mississippi Affiliate.

"Industry requires people to use protective eyewear," he points out. "But too many of us do not use the same precautions when involved in eye-threatening activities at home. Eye precautions are as important in the home as they are at work."

Among the top causes of eye injuries listed by the Society are accidents with hand and power tools that propel wood or metal fragments or sawdust into the eye.

Many people do not consider mowing the lawn as hazardous—but it can be. Power mowers often hit and throw rocks, sticks and other ground debris at the face with great velocity.

To reduce the risk of eye injury in these situations, the Society recommends the use of industrial quality safety glasses or goggles. These can be obtained easily from most hardware stores and safety equipment suppliers.

Many people don't realize that a simple household aid like ammonia can seriously injure your eyes. Says Mr. Nabers, "Chemical products should be worn when used. Household products as cleaning agents, paint removers, and aerosol products."

and aerosol products."

For these and other eye safety tips, send for the Society's pamphlet, "Eye Safety is No Accident." Write: Prevent Blindness, 115 Broadmoor Dr., Jackson, MS 39206.

Four Hancock County residents were honored at a recent American Red Cross awards banquet at the Disabled American Veterans Hall in Bay St. Louis.

Those cited include: Robert Clark of Clermont Harbor, Elizabeth Duncan of Bay St. Louis, the late Ethel Weaver, and John Rutherford Jr. of Bay St. Louis.

Clarke was honored for his efforts on behalf of the Hancock County Chapter, American Red Cross, in the areas of fund raising and membership. In addition, Clark was operator of the chapter emergency refreshment vehicle.

Duncan has served for some time as the chapter's teacher of multi media first aid and emergency first responders.

Ethel Christmas and Edward Weaver received the citation honoring their late mother, Ethel Weaver, for her services to the chapter during many years of her life.

Rutherford Jr. was honored for his work as chapter chairman and director of the county's blood bank program. He served as master of ceremonies at the awards event.

Others participating in the awards program include Rev. Johnny Saucier in invocation; Mrs. Joan Mitchell in welcome; and Chester Wilcox of Gulfport, retired, Veterans Affairs Administration Red Cross official who served as guest speaker for the occasion.

Entertainment was provided by the Bay Fore And After Barbershop Quartet composed of Bunk Gardner, Eddie Hodges, Doug Taylor and Brother Pierre.

Other chapter officers are Mrs. Geraldine Lang, first vice chairman; Dorothy Bielstein, secretary; P. Conway, treasurer; and Thelma Magness, executive secretary.

The banquet program committee included Lang, chairman; and Alvin Nichols, Mitchum, Mrs. Monty Greenway, Marilyn Williams and Monica Price.

However, since the bid was lower than expected the council now has additional money it hopes to use for additional gas line renovation in the project area.

Ronn Murray, the city's consultant for the project, told the council he has received verbal approval from HUD to extend the city's contract with Southland to include renovation of five more miles of gas line inside the project area.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex advised the board to rebid the project since work included in the original contract would be doubled.

"Your talking about a 100 percent increase from the original project," he said.

"A change order is usually about five or 10 percent of the job," he said.

"I think you are leaving yourself open to a lot of public criticism and I recommend you rebid."

Councilman James Thrifflay III stated he was afraid the city would not receive a similarly low bid if the job was bid again.

"I hate to go to the market again when I got a piece of pie in hand," he said.

Murray told the council it might also be criticized by the public if the job was bid since the bidding process would delay the project.

"You may get more criticism if they are out there laying gas lines in December," he said.

Gex noted no state statute determines what can be considered a change order and what is considered a new project.

"It's up to you to decide if it is a new contract," he said.

Councilman Gene Taylor recommended Gex contact the state attorney general for an opinion and the council agreed to await the attorney general's ruling before it decides what action to take.

In other business, Taylor recommended the council adopt an ordinance requiring everyone in the city to number their house.

However, Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau stated, "The public would think we have nothing better to do with ourselves."

He suggested the council request members of the community to have their houses numbered.

"I don't think we have to pass an ordinance," he said.

Taylor noted he recommended the ordinance for safety reasons since police and firefighters often have problems locating a house without a street number.

Both Taylor and Thrifflay voted in favor of the ordinance but Councilman Harry Farve, Seuzeneau and Board President Wilmer Seymour were opposed.

Also at the meeting Taylor recommended the council pass an ordinance forbidding the use of city vehicles on private property.

Taylor gave no specifics instances of where this has happened.

He said, "We don't have one (an ordinance) on the books and I think we need one."

On Tuesday the council was uncertain as to what penalty should be assessed against offenders.

They requested Gex to look up the maximum penalty and add it to the ordinance.

When the board met again Wednesday night in a recess meeting, it approved the new ordinance which includes a maximum penalty—currently a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

Also Wednesday the board approved a low bid of $94,756 from Griner Drilling Service Inc. of Columbia, Miss. for construction of a new water well on Harry Street.

In other action Tuesday night the council approved increasing the water line connection fees.

Fees for three-quarter inch water meters lines, one inch water meter lines, one-and-one-half inch water meter lines and two-inch water meter lines were $200, $225, 275, $350 and actual cost, respectively.

New rates for water meter connections, effective May 4, 1982 are $350, $375, $425, $500 and actual cost, respectively.

The action followed a report by City Utility Head Billy Johnston at an earlier meeting. Johnston stated the city was losing money on the connections.

Improvement.....CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

During the meeting he told board members that they should be commended as well as the teachers and principals.

"Two-and-one-half years ago we started working on some of our weaknesses. Now are weaknesses are our strengths," he added.

In other business the board approved the resignation of seven teachers in the district, effective at the end of this school year.

Following the meeting, Sills attributed some of the resignations to better job opportunities in other schools.

"We're not more money than they get here," Sills said. He said some teachers are paid $5,000 more in Tulsa.

"To replace one of the teachers, the board approved hiring Sandra Grayson as an English and Speech teacher at Hancock North Central for the 1982-83 year.

Sills said the district "is in good shape" regarding the need to hire more teachers.

"We're not five years away from looking at a situation and having people for two remaining positions," he said.

Also at the meeting the board approved following Linda Kinney to Hancock North Central for school year 1982-83.

Retired Federal staging 17th annual meeting

Members of 30 Mississippi chapters of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees are meeting today through Tuesday at the Jackson Regency Inn for their 17th annual convention.

James R. Shadoin of St. Louis, Buccaneer Chapter No. 1729-N.A.R.F.E., president of the local chapter, said Daniel J. Sentilles, Fred H. Logan, Gordon E. Stone and Anna Marie Devine are attending as delegates. Vera B. Sentilles, Ruth H. Logan and H. Norman Devine are alternate delegates.

"We welcome all other retired federal employees and their spouses to join us. Get in touch with us for more information," Shadoin said.

Walter C. Nelms, Clinton, state president, said: "I believe this will be a most significant meeting. George E. Auman, director of Field Operations, from Washington, D.C., and Herbert K. Jones, Palm Harbor, Fla., Region III vice-president, are on the program. They will discuss current issues and objectives and what we can do to support them."

The meeting will open Sunday afternoon with an informal reception, followed by an evening meal and a program of entertainment. The convention will be presided over by Daniel J. Sentilles, president of the local chapter.

During the business session, state officers will be elected and the following committees chairman will make reports: Fred B. Gilliland, Chairman, credentials and treasurer; Mrs. Rose Fleming, Clinton, legislative; Charles Clifton, Pelahatchie, membership; Morgan Warren, Vicksburg, audit; Curtis Dickerson, Jackson, resolutions; and Franklin Cuevas, Gulfport, nominations.

Jackson chapters of the Mississippi Federation are hosting the event.

ETV Brief

Dana Andrews and Farley Granger star in Samuel Goldwyn's "Edge of Doom," to be presented on Mississippi ETV's "Saturday Night Movie Classics" at 9 p.m., Saturday, May 29, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Granger portrays a sensitive, bitter youth who murders a priest in a fit of anger when the priest refuses to give the boy's mother an elaborate funeral because there is no money to pay for it.

Andrews is a younger, sympathetic priest who slowly unravels the clues leading to the boy's guilt.

"Good Judges Make Good Government"

CLYDE HURLBERT
For Circuit Judge

"The Circuit Judge's job is to see that the people of the State of Mississippi, plaintiffs, defendants, and victims, all get a fair trial."

The jury must rely upon the circuit judge to instruct them as to the proper law to be applied in reaching a verdict. Any mistakes made by an inexperienced judge as to the law may result in appeals, and increased cost to the taxpayers and litigants if a new trial is necessary.

The Judge's duty to promote justice comes only after a guilty verdict. Which is not that verdict and sentence will stand on an appeal depends largely on the ability of the trial judge to see that the trial has been conducted according to law. Therefore, a circuit judge must have a full knowledge of the law concerning all types of cases, both criminal and civil. Someone like Clyde Hurlbert.

Clyde Hurlbert has been a member of the State Bar and Civil Trial for 23 years. He is a member of the Mississippi Bar Association and the Mississippi Judicial Conference. He has been a judge in the State Bar and Civil Trial for 23 years.

St. Ann's Church News

As thought for meditation from our pastor, Father Lambert Stack, S.T.

"Sometimes a good crunch is often better than a bad foot."

Don't forget—today, Sunday, May 23 at 2 p.m. there will be a May Crowning and Procession, honoring the Blessed Virgin Mary at St. John's Church, Lakeshore.

The children are asked to bring some freshly cut flowers from their garden if possible.

Parishioners and friends are invited to participate in this display of devotion to Mary.

The monthly luncheon, social sponsored by the Altar Society will be Wednesday, May 26 in the parish hall at noon. Donation is $2. The public is invited.

The May meeting of the Altar Society is also scheduled for Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the parish hall.

Mrs. Patsy Belsome, teacher, reports the picnic held last Tuesday at St. Ann's for students of the Religious Education classes was well attended and a great success.

Doing an outstanding job for the past year teaching in the CCD program were Mrs. Gwenn Blackledge, Mrs. Marilyn Thornton, Mrs. Rita Davis, Mrs. Patsy Belsome and Ed Kenmore.

Father Stack would also like to thank Mrs. Dot Neubig and Mrs. Lil Kenmore for their faithful support.

The annual parish rummage sale will be held in the parish hall Monday, June 7 through Friday, June 11. According to Mrs. Shirley Williams and Mrs. Marian Traub, chairpersons, there will be a wide variety of merchandise on sale at reasonable prices. However, donations are still being accepted at the rectory.

St. Rose de Lima Parish News

Congratulations to our Bay High graduates: Deidre Acker, Don Acker, Edward Alexander, Kathleen Arnold, Pauline Benoit, Ronald Carter, Leo Garrett Jr., Bernardine Labat, Crystal Labat, Laverne Laneaux, Mark Lizana, Connie Lyons, Verna Montgomery, Franklin Reed, Adrian Saucier, Troy Saucier, Barry Smith, Frances Smith and June Vontoure.

Congratulations to Myra Hall, graduate of Hancock North Central, who received a $700 scholarship from the local branch NAACP as sole winner of its first annual oratorical contest held in our cafeteria last Monday. Myra has also been granted a four year scholastic scholarship to Alcorn State University in Lorman, Mississippi. She finished third in her class.

At our parish council call meeting last Sunday, Lonnie Bradley and Nat Fair-connetue, our Nat Fair-co-chairpersons, accepted the chairpersons for the various booths. They will meet in the cafeteria today after the 9 a.m. Mass.

This year's Fair Contest will have three categories: 1. Baby of the Fair (3 months - 6 years), 2. Junior Miss St. Rose and Crown Prince (7-12 years), and 3. Miss St. Rose and King (13-18 years). All contestants will be given 10 percent of money turned in and also a plaque.

The concerned Citizens of Hancock County will meet in our cafeteria on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Our Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6 p.m. The Catholic Communications Collection will be taken next week. Half of money will be used for diocesan TV program. Other half will be used on a national level.

MASS SCHEDULE
Daily, Monday through Saturday, at 8:30 a.m.
Saturday vigil at 6 p.m.
Sunday at 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Novena Devotion Our Mother of Perpetual Help at beginning of Tuesday Mass. Pentecost Novena nightly, Monday through Friday, at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday 7 p.m. Confessions are heard half-hour before weekend Masses and during the day.

Tom Bosley addresses Pearlington Mormons

Thomas R. Bosley Jr. of the High Council of the Hattiesburg, Mississippi Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints discussed "A Pure Knowledge and Love of God" at the Pearlington Branch's May 16 regularly scheduled sacrament meeting.

Bosley asked, "How can we love God if we don't know him? How can we know him when all around us people are groping for the truth? There is so much confusion in the world about God. Who is God?"

He answered these questions by using scriptures to point out that man didn't start out ignorant or confused about God, His will, or His love for His children.

Bosley said that Adam had a perfect understanding of God, as did Noah, Enoch, and Abraham.

He added, "We today can gain a pure knowledge and love of God through careful and prayerful study of the scriptures."

He urged members to show forth the knowledge and love of God that they gain through following these guidelines: by showing love, compassion and understanding for their fellowman.

Bosley's wife, Jackie also spoke to the group. Her thoughts were centered around "Perfection." She noted that frailties of human nature make one feel bad about himself if he doesn't seem to progress as far as he feels he should even though others may think he is doing well.

She further stated that perfection is a step-by-step process in which mistakes are necessary.

In striving to attain perfection, Ms. Bosley suggests persons that not overload themselves with unnecessary burdens, that they evaluate themselves and set realistic goals, and that they always take responsibility for their own actions, callings and positions in life.

The Bosleys moved to Hancock County in 1971 and are now residents of Bay St. Louis.

They will soon celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary and are parents of five children and the grandparents of two.

Bosley served in World War

II as a paratrooper, holds a BS degree in chemistry, and is presently employed with Michoud in New Orleans East. Ms. Bosley is a registered nurse.

The Bosleys joined the Mormon Church together in June of 1959 and have both fulfilled many callings therein. Bosley has served as branch president in Huntington, West Va.; bishop in Slidell, La.; ward mission leader in Waveland; and presently is on the High Council of the Hattiesburg Mississippi Stake.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." — John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

The following story is a hard one to read. In fact, if you can relate to this story then it may even bring a tear to your eye. It is the story of a relationship which is in the slow but sure process of dying. It is entitled "The Wall." The author is unknown.

THE WALL

Their wedding picture mocked them from the table, these two, whose minds no longer touched each other.

They lived with such a heavy barricade between them that neither battering ram of words nor artillery of touch could break it down.

Somewhere between the oldest child's first tooth and the youngest daughter's graduation, they lost each other.

Throughout the years, each slowly unraveled that tangled ball of string called self, and as they tugged at stubborn knots each hid his searching from the other.

Sometimes she cried at night and begged the whispering darkness to tell her who she was.

He lay beside her, snoring like a hibernating bear, unaware of her winter.

Once, after they had made love, he wanted to tell her how afraid he was of dying, but, fearing to show his naked soul, he spoke instead about the beauty of her breasts. She took a course in modern art, trying to find herself in colors splashed upon a canvas, and complained to other women about men who were insensitive.

He climbed into a tomb called "the office," wrapped his mind in a shroud of paper figures and buried himself in customers.

Slowly, the wall between them rose, cemented by the mortar of indifference.

One day, reaching out to touch each other, they found a barrier they could not penetrate, and recoiling from the coldness of the stone, each retreated from the stranger on the other side.

For when love dies, it is not in a moment of angry battle, nor when fiery bodies lose their heat.

It lies panting, exhausted, expiring at the bottom of a wall it could not scale.

The saddest element of this story is that it mirrors countless marriages throughout the Bay-Waveland community and across the entire United States. If it pictures yours then share this particular story with your spouse. And one again begin to revive the lost art of effectively communicating with the one with whom you have vowed to share your life.

In next week's article I will share with you some excellent guidelines on marriage communication from the Bible. They should be helpful in both preventing build-up of a "wall" and tearing down existing ones.

May God bless you and your partner to be better communicators. Because communication is an essential element in the enjoyment of the "abundant life."

PHOENICIAN DIG—Director Lawrence Stager, left, and archaeological supervisors, front to rear, Douglas Esse, Joseph Greene and Samuel Wolff excavate the Phoenician "Precinct of Tanit" on Carthage. Narrated by Eli Wallach, the show will air on ME-TV, channel 19 at 10:30 p.m., Saturday, May 29.

There's an Answer!

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE AND RUTH STAFFORD
PEALE

Will he want me?
Q. I'm afraid it's too late, for I'm so full of bitterness and despair. I'm sure God has forgotten me. My husband of 34 years passed away suddenly six years ago.

I had a drinking problem and though we were fairly happy, at one time he turned to another woman. We got things straightened out before he died, and I stopped drinking. But now I am afraid that in eternity he may not want to join me, but her.

I spend hours thinking of this and I've let myself go. Now I'm too ashamed to go out and get a job because of my looks. Can you help me?

A. Straighten out your thinking. Get organized in your personality; go to work on your looks. Get a job, work loyally and efficiently and stop worrying who your husband will join in heaven. That is another life. Trust God to take care of it.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet "Stop Worrying and Start Living" which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, New York 12564.

Vengeful or loving?

Q. I am 35 years old, happily married with two wonderful children. Recently, due to the death of a loved one, job pressures, etc., I was virtually swamped with worry and doubt. One of my means of recovery was to read the Bible for passages of strength. Many passages were inspiring, but many seemed to be loaded with fear and guilt, dwelling on man's wickedness and a wrathful God. My vision is of a warm, loving, caring God. How do you explain passages in the Bible which depict a God who is vengeful and whom we should fear? Aren't we to draw upon a loving God for strength?

A. There are some circumstances where God's sternness is evidenced. But even then, like a good earthly father, He can strongly deal with evil. He is never devoid of compassion and love. The "fear of God" means we are to respect God; not be afraid of Him. He is always our loving Heavenly Father even when He disapproves of what we do. And He is forever just and merciful. Keep on trusting and loving Him.

We are sending you our booklet "Spirit Lifters" which has helped others with problems such as yours. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Overburdened

Q. My mom, at 92, is weak, despondent and really does not want to live any longer.

BAD NEWS—GOOD NEWS

The good news is that 'The Road Warrior' opens this week at the Choctaw Cinema IV. The bad news is 'Conan: The Barbarian.'

Let's start with the bad news. Last week I said that 'Cat People' was brutal, well, if that film was brutal, 'Conan' is as barbaric as its title explicitly implies.

Former five-time Mr. Universe Arnold Schwarzenegger stars as Conan, a huge brute with a penchant for hacking his enemies to death. He is joined in his jaunt through complete and utter carnage by Sandahl Bergman and Gerry Lopez.

James Earl Jones heads the villain's list and from the very beginning he displays his villainousness by beheading Conan's mother.

The two henchmen who support Jones—one is played by former Oakland football player Ben Davidson—look like rejects from the Georgia Championship Wrestling Show.

They only add to the unintentional comedy that seems to permeate this gory folly.

The battle scenes are usually shortlived with blood spraying everywhere. The introduction to each battle scene is the same, complete with thundering horses and an 'Omen'-like soundtrack (i.e. that's when one of those huge choirs shriek and rant that medieval rhetoric while an even bigger orchestra lays down a heavy bass beat with plenty of kettle drums and bassoons).

'Conan' is simply a series of scenes whereby Schwarzenegger is showcased flashing his sword and solar plexus. It's either that or he's sitting on his haunches tearing great hunks of meat out of what looks to be a large barbecued turkey breast.

'Conan' is a bloody, barbaric exercise filled with laughable performances and an extreme amount of excessive gore. And unless you enjoy watching someone's head get hacked off in a series of brutal ax blows, I'd stay away from this one.

The good news is the advance word on George Miller's 'The Road Warrior.'

Richard Corliss, 'Time' magazine's movie critic, calls 'Warrior,' "a textbook of sophisticated, popular moviemaking."

As a sequel to 1979's 'Mad Max,' 'The Road Warrior' is set in the postnuclear future. It concerns the fight between good and evil in a time when neither really matters.

One important item that Corliss mentions is that "(director) Miller suggests violence; he does not exploit it." Quite a relief in this time of vicious Hollywood special effects and carnage.

'The Road Warrior' is another in a line of films emerging from Australia. The trend really caught on when the impeccable 'Breaker Morant' did so well in the United States.

'The Road Warrior' looks like a good bet for your money!

FILM CLIPS

If you ever get a chance to see either 'Personal Best' or 'The Bedford Incident,' do so.

(1) 'Personal Best' is a 1982 release directed by Robert Towne, who has written such classic American screenplays as 'Bonnie and Clyde,' 'Shampoo' and 'Chinatown' (for which he won an Oscar).

'Personal Best' stars young dynamo Mariel Hemingway ('Manhattan') as a young woman athlete who falls in love with a fellow athlete, played beautifully by newcomer Chris Donnelly.

Scott Glenn gives fine support as the hard-driving coach. The movie is not exploitative and the competition sequences are handled better than I think I've ever seen in any sports-oriented film.

(2) 'The Bedford Incident' stars Richard Widmark, Sidney Poitier, Martin Balsam and Wally Cox in an excellent 1964 Cold War drama. Widmark is great as the captain who dictates that all of his crew carry out their orders instinctively, and without question.

Poitier plays a magazine writer gathering information for an article on the U.S. Navy. What follows is a classic drama of the highest caliber with such an explosive ending you'll be gasping for breath. Really!

ETV GUESTS—Discussing "the future of blacks in Mississippi institutions of higher learning" on Mississippi ETV's "Faces" series are, left to right, host Ruth Campbell; Dr. Lee Reiff of Millsaps College; Dr. Cleopatra Thompson of Jackson State University; and Jeanette King, a psychiatric social worker in Jackson. "Faces" can be seen at 9 p.m., Friday, May 23, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

SAN FRANCISCO—The cable car is a colorful part of the rich history of San Francisco which is the subject of California Dreams: Golden City. Narrated by Tom Bosley, the show can be seen on METV, channel 19 at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, May 29.

Book Review

MARIJUANA BIBLIOGRAPHY

'Marijuana, An Annotated Bibliography, Vol. II,' a comprehensive collection of materials covering all facets of cannabis research from 1975-79, has been released by Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc.

The book is a publication of the Research Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences in The University of Mississippi School of Pharmacy.

The Research Institute published its first marijuana bibliography—which includes works published from 1964-74—six years ago. Volumes I and II contain 5,715 abstracts of cannabis literature citations.

The 657-page second volume is designed to update the first volume and to acquaint scientists, educators and students with the vast amount of cannabis research information available to them, said Ms. Beverly Urbanek, a research associate in the Research Institute who helped to compile the work.

The book should prove to be an invaluable reference tool for anyone with an interest in marijuana and drug abuse, she said.

"The Research Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences is credited with housing the most extensive collection of marijuana research papers in the world," Ms. Urbanek commented.

"When we first conceived of sharing this vast amount of information, it was primarily with the researcher in mind. However when the first volume came out, parents groups, libraries, drug enforcement agencies and other members of the lay public found it useful."

Volume II contains a 161-page index, so those without scientific knowledge should find it even easier to use.

In addition to the extensive index, the second volume of the bibliography contains a list of marijuana-related patents as well as structures and tables of the 421 chemical compounds found in cannabis, Ms. Urbanek said.

Those involved in compiling the latest volume include Ms. Urbanek; Dr. Coy W. Waller, former director of the Research Institute; Dr. Rashmi S. Nair, an Ole Miss graduate who is presently senior toxicologist for Monsanto Company in St. Louis; Ann F. McAllister, a former research associate at the Research Institute who is now technical information specialist at the National Library of Medicine in Bethesda, Md.; and Dr. Carlton Turner, who is on leave from his duties as director of the Research Institute to serve as director of the Drug Abuse Policy Office at the White House.

Ms. Urbanek said plans are being made to update the marijuana bibliographies by yearly supplements, with another cumulative addition in five years. Research Institute staff members are working now on a similar bibliography for cocaine, she added.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

AUCTIONING OFFERS ALTERNATIVE

QUESTION: I recently read where people are auctioning their homes instead of selling them through a real estate broker. What are the benefits auctioning to a homeowner?

J. T. Jackson.

ANSWER: Dear J. T. In the past, auctions were frequently used as merchandising techniques for acreage property and surplus property, such as condominiums, in oversupplied market areas. However, in today's real estate market with high interest rates, individual owners of residential real estate are continually looking for ways to sell their homes. Thus, some are turning to auctioning rather than traditional selling.

As an alternative method of selling, auctioning provides an owner two benefits of great value to most sellers.

First, it is a quick way to convert your real estate into cash. As you know, one of the potential disadvantages of owning real estate concerns the inability of converting the asset into cash. This nonliquidity means that the property may remain on the market for an extended time period without any serious offers.

Second, it is easy to establish an actual date of sale. By auctioning the property, offers are made on the spot and if accepted, the property is sold on the very day it is placed on the market. Chances are good that anyone who is serious about selling the property has already arranged financing before the auction and thus, the property can be sold on the spot.

When auctioning property, the seller can create a no risk situation by setting a bottom limit on bids. If the bidding does not reach this minimum price the owner is not obligated to sell the property. This is referred to as an auction with reserve, which means that the seller reserves the right to accept or reject bids and to withdraw the property from sale. Unless it is stated to the contrary, an auction is considered to be with reserve.

If you think you might want to auction your property it is best to check with several auction companies before committing yourself. Often these companies' rates and arrangements will vary considerably depending upon the property and the policy of the auction company. Some companies charge a set fee to cover advertising and other selling expenses; this fee is charged even if the owner decides not to accept the highest bid. Other companies work on a commission basis and thus receive an agreed upon percentage of the actual sales price.

Finally, you should consult a knowledgeable real estate broker or appraiser to assist you in establishing the value of your property. You certainly want to have a good idea as to the value of your real estate before you attempt to auction it.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis T. P. O. Box 295, University, MS 38677.

Bay Little Theatre's 'The Butler did it' is satisfying experience

By DAVID JONES

I was introduced to the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre last Friday night, and I rather enjoyed it.

Sitting inside The Playhouse, a quaint, rustic structure cooled by ceiling fans, sipping refreshments and awaiting the play, 'The Butler Did It,' I had no idea what to expect. What I discovered was a three-act play rich in depth, characterization and attention to detail.

'The Butler Did It' is a kind of Agatha Christie whodunit complete with an assortment of eccentric players.

Miss Maple, played strongly by Frances Frankiewicz, invites several writers of detective novels to her Ravenswood Manor, an isolated estate on Turkey Island off the coast of San Francisco. As soon as the troupe arrives the comedy, intrigue and murder begins.

Each cast member establishes their character from the very beginning, whether it be the tough-talking Chandler Marlowe (Terry Simpson) or the incompetent

Oriental (Loren Hoover) or the brazen Charity Haze (Claudia Murphy), who arrives on the set in a most theatrical manner.

Other cast members include Nancy Carson playing the downstairs maid whose past includes "some unpleasantness with a hatchet," Dottie Overall as the mysterious hatbox-carrying social secretary, Brother Elbert as the sly Father White, Edgar Perez and Linda Dorian playing the husband and wife team of Rick and Laura Carlyle, and Ken Behrendt as the perceptive gentleman Peter Flimsey.

The plot is full of twists, turns and surprises and you won't be disappointed by the tell-all ending.

There are very few stumbling blocks along the way and even then the entire cast performs admirably, plugging a couple of the pregnant pauses with quick-thinking lines that demonstrate an uncanny professional skill. The production is a technical masterpiece and technical director Vic Frankiewicz, Jr. keeps the unseen factors in this play alive. Examples include the set which has a surreal quality to it and the special effects, which are handled expertly, many times causing the audience to jump in fright at the eerie quirks that go on at Ravenswood Manor.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre offers an excellent way to spend an evening. It gives one the chance to see friends and fellow members of the community taking part in a collaboration process that depends on each person doing his or her part.

The result, as in 'The Butler Did It,' is easy to see. As much as the actors, the care for this production is extremely visible.

Many things in 'The Butler Did It' aren't what they seem. But that's what Little Theatre is all about. And a night spent at Ravenswood Manor as performed by The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is a satisfying and enlightening experience. 'The Butler Did It' will be performed next Friday and Saturday night at 8:15 p.m. May 28 and 29.

MRS. CORY EVAN BIELSTEIN

Bielstein, Centanni wed in Hattiesburg

Donna Lee Centanni became the bride of Cory Evan Bielstein in an afternoon ceremony on Saturday, April 24, in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Hattiesburg. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Centanni of Hattiesburg and Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Bielstein of Waveland.

The Rev. Patrick O'Shaughnessy performed the ceremony before a main altar and side altars decorated with spring flowers surrounded by tropical greenery.

Presenting gospel readings were Robert Cornett of Gulfport and James Mordica of Hattiesburg.

Music was presented by Mrs. Arlene Pace of Hattiesburg, organist, and Mrs. Mary Bess Bounds of Hattiesburg, vocalist, who sang "Endless Love," "One Hand, One Heart," and "Our Father."

The bride's gown was of pure white chiffon with French re-embroidered Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls designed with a scalloped V-neckline, tapered long sleeves and Basque waistline. The full flowing chiffon skirt formed a cathedral train. She wore a bridal hat decorated with a side silk rose, English net and a pout of silk illusion and carried a cascade of white silk flowers.

Maid of honor was Diane Centanni of Houston, Tex., sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Dana Bielstein of Waveland and Donna Bielstein of Hattiesburg, sisters of the bridegroom; Ellisha Hawkins, Margie Sumrall and Hilda Salmon all of Hattiesburg; and Yvett Hargis of Metairie, La., cousin of the bride.

They wore gowns in rainbow colors of tissue taffeta featuring off-the-shoulder bodices framed with double ruffle collar effects in contrasting shades and cummerbunds. Each carried a bouquet of silk spring flowers.

Amy Tartavouille of Waveland, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Chad Britt of Hattiesburg was ring bearer.

Alan Mills of Hattiesburg was best man.

Groomsmen were Michael Centanni of Houston, Tex., and Richard Centanni of Hattiesburg, brothers of the bride; Tracy Klein of Hattiesburg; Roy Aswell of Metairie, La.; Banks Norman of Hattiesburg; and Dane McDaniel of Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.

Ushers were Jimmy Perniciaro of Waveland; Keith Felder of Liberty; Randolph Langford of Hattiesburg; Michael Centanni of Houston; and Richard Centanni of Hattiesburg.

A reception in the ballroom of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company followed the ceremony.

Presiding at the guest register were Rosa Lee

Mordica and Margaret Langford. Rice girl was Hope Tartavouille of Waveland, niece of the bridegroom.

Assisting at the reception were Karla Tartavouille of Waveland, sister of the bridegroom; Jane Ezelle, Lillian Hennington; Libby Moudy; Janet Pascale; Lorita Finnegan; Catherine Rhodes; Peggy Moore; Utis Moulder; Maxine Walters; Frances Hale; Joanna Malone; Lottie McMillian; Lillian Smith; and Clotilde Thornton.

Following a wedding trip to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, the couple will reside in Hattiesburg.

Among the out-of-town guests was Mrs. Ada Sironi of Yorktown, Tex., grandmother of the bridegroom.

Annunciation vows unite Hessler, Shiyou

train. She wore a tiered veil of illusion strewn with appliques of venise lace and held in place by a beaded lace caplet.

She carried a cascade of white cymbidium orchids, sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Patricia Cuevas of Kiln, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Nancy Shiyou of Kiln, sister of the bride; Lisa Hessler of Victoria, Tex., sister of the groom; and Elizabeth Helwick of Gulfport.

Miss Melanie Hessler of Victoria, Tex., sister of the groom, was flower girl. Brian Depreo of Slidell, La., cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bridesmaids were identically attired in formal gowns of lilac chiffon fashioned with cross draped fitted bodices, gently shirred cap sleeves and tiny self bow at the waistline, emphasizing the paneled, flowing skirts. They carried nosegays of yellow button pom-poms, pink miniature carnations, lavender daisies and purple statice.

Bart Nylin of Victoria, Tex., served the groom as best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Hessler of Victoria, Tex., brother of the groom; A.J. Cuevas of Kiln, brother-in-law of the bride; and Boby Bunnels of Gulfport.

David Depreo of Pass Christian, cousin of the bride, and Russell Eland of Luling, La., cousin of the groom, were ushers. A reception followed the ceremony at the Jourdan River Shores Clubhouse in Kiln. Assisting were Shelia Umstatt of Gulfport; Doris Wyatt of Kiln; Louise Depreo of Pass Christian and Shirley Peterson of Perkinston.

The couple will reside in Victoria, Tex.

Ole Miss schedules Alumni College Week

University of Mississippi alumni and friends from throughout the South and the country are invited to return to the Oxford campus for the June 24-27 Alumni College.

The Alumni College is a new educational program for alumni and friends of the University. The program, which offers a weekend vacation in a learning atmosphere, will feature recreational activities as well as study and discussion of current topics and issues. June 18 is the deadline for registration.

"We have planned this Alumni College weekend so participants and their families can be involved not only in the seminars but also in family recreational activities or sightseeing," said James N. Butler, director of alumni activities at Ole Miss.

"This is also a great opportunity for alumni to come back to campus for several days and experience campus life again. Summer school will be in session and alumni will be able to mix with students and enjoy the college atmosphere."

Issues and topics to be discussed during the Alumni College include "The Selling of the South: The Southern Crusade for Industrial Development," "Can We Survive the 80s?" "Discipline: Is It Time for Schools to Get Tough?" "The Top Twenty in Traditional Jazz and Popular Music," "Career Choices and Changes: What the How-To Books Don't Tell You," "The Graying of America: Leisure is Colorblind," and "Coping With the Stress of Work."

The program also will include discussion topics within the areas of the arts and humanities, recreation and leisure, science, domestic issues, business and human growth and development.

Ole Miss professors will lead seminars and discussions. Among those who will participate are Dr. John E. Filer, assistant professor of economics and finance; Dr. James C. Cobb, associate professor of history; Dr. Jim Chambliss, associate dean of the School of Education; Dr. John W. McCauley, associate professor of music; Dr. J. Tate Thigpen, associate professor of medicine; and Dr. H. Leon Garrett, chairman and professor of health, physical education and recreation.

Activities such as tennis and swimming will be conducted by the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation for children aged 7-16 who attend the weekend program. Supervised activities also are planned for children ages 2-7.

Cost for the Alumni College is $35 per adult and $15 per child. The fee covers all program activities as well as a Saturday evening barbeque and Sunday continental breakfast.

A cafeteria meal plan will be available at $18 per adult. Housing is available at the Alumni House Motel on campus; rates are $27 a night per family or $25.25 a night for singles.

The Alumni College is sponsored by the Ole Miss Alumni Association in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education. For additional information or registration, contact the Office of Alumni Activities, Alumni House, University, MS 38677 (telephone 601-222-7375).

Writing workshop slated

Gulf Coast Junior College's annual creative writing workshop will be Wednesday through Friday, June 3-5, at the Perkinston Campus.

Nell Henderson, workshop director, said registration is June 9, 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. in the lobby of Andrews Hall.

Guest consultants will be Ann Carley, Jackson, Elizabeth Inniss-Brown, University of Southern Mississippi at Hattiesburg; Dr. Richard Jackson, associate professor at the University of Tennessee, Chattanooga; Dr. Thomas Reiter, English professor at Monmouth College, New Jersey; and Robert Sorrells, Clemson, South Carolina.

Paperback author Carley has penned "This Ravished Rose" and "The Winged Lion." She has been a regular participant of the writing workshop for the last 10 years and has been published in "Wendell," GBC's literary magazine.

Inniss-Brown has been teaching at USM since 1978. Her book, "Satin Palace," published in December 1981, was named by author Stanley Isaacs as the 1981 Associated Writing Programs Award Best in Short Fiction.

The book has also been nominated for the J. R. R. Tolkien Prize and the Ernest Hemingway Foundation Award. Her fiction and reviews have also appeared in North American Review, New York Arts Journal and Chelsea.

Jackson has written several articles for Contemporary Literature, Studies in Romanticism, Southern Humanities Review and Post.

Reiter is editor of the New Jersey Poetry Journal and recipient of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts Poetry Fellowship.

His collections of poetry include "River Route," "The Zelenka Poems" and "Starting from Bloodroot."

Short story writer Sorrells has nine years teaching experience.

His fiction has been published in the Louisiana State University Press Anthology of Southern Writing in the Sixties, Penthouse, American Review, Best American Short Stories and South Carolina Review.

He is recipient of a grant from the National Endowment of the Arts as well as the South Carolina Committee for the Humanities.

In addition to fiction, Sorrells scripted a film on land-use for South Carolina and independently produced several radio programs for the state's educational radio network.

Energy Answers

Q. Would I save money if I ran a small air-conditioner in the part of the house I spend most of my time in during the day and turned up the thermostat on the central system in the rest of the house?

A. This one is tricky to answer—without a lot more specific information, but the engineers who work with us say they think it would work under these conditions:

—You'd have to be able to close off the part of the house you'll be in from the part of the house that's going to remain at a higher temperature.

—The temperature level of the conditioning in the central system would have to be well above 72 degrees Fahrenheit—78 degrees or better—to cut the cost of operating the central system enough to pay for the operation of the small unit.

—The small unit would have to be large enough to cool the closed-off area of the house, but not too large.

How effective this procedure would be would depend on a lot of unknowns: how efficient your air conditioning units are, how well you maintain them, the amount of heat that gets into your house, the size of your house, and where your house is located (in the sun or shade, etc.). And those are only some of the variables.

The reason this answer is so "iffy" is that if all these considerations don't turn out to be in your favor, you'll pay more to operate two types of air-conditioning than you would have for only one.

For more information, or to get an answer to your energy question, contact the toll-free Energy Answerline, 1-800-222-8311; the Mississippi Energy Extension Center, (601) 325-3152, or questions may be mailed to the Energy Center, P.O. Box 100, Jackson, MS 39202.
